

Attendance Matters

We believe all students should have the opportunity to learn. Student attendance is directly linked with academic outcomes. All absences, excused and unexcused, sporadic and consecutive, represent lost instructional time. Tennessee students who are chronically absent in Kindergarten are 15% less likely to reach proficiency in either third grade math or language.

It is very important that you make school a priority! Please stress to your child the importance of coming to school. Make attendance a value that is important in your family. There are many factors that contribute to your child's ability to make friends and to learn. Good attendance at school is the easiest way you can support your child in his/her social impact and learning!
